General Notes: Obituary Story from

Denton Journal (Denton, Maryland) December 21, 1895

Sad Death of Harry J. Marvel.

Mr. Harry J. Marvel, proprietor of the Queen Anne's hotel, met with a fatal accident on Saturday evening last, about six o'clock. With a young man named Carter he had driven to Cordova and was returning. Just as he was leaving the town, and while near the depot his horse, which was going at a high speed, attempted to take a wrong road, and was pulled suddenly into the right one. The suddenness of the turn threw the occupants out. Carter fell first and the unfortunate man came after, striking the ground with great force with his head. Carter was not seriously hurt and quickly jumped up and pursued the team, which had gone up the road, not knowing that Mr. Marvel had been hurt. Some one came along, however, and found the wounded man lying in the road, bleeding about the face, breathing very heavily and unconscious. A comfortable dayton wagon was secured and he was taken to his home in Queen Anne's. Dr. Robley Hackett and Dr. Enoch George were summoned and all that medical skill could accomplish was done for him. There had been fatal concussion of the brain and consciousness could not be restored. The patient lingered until about four o'clock on Tuesday morning, when he passed away. The deceased, who was about thirty years of age, was very popular, being a most warm-hearted, genial and pleasant young man, and a great many friends mourn his demise. He was a son of Henry Marvel, who resides near Bridgetown. The young man leaves a widow, who was a Miss Holliday, of Queen Anne's county, and four small children.

An autopsy was held on Wednesday, when an inner comminuted fracture of the temporal bone was disclosed. The following physicians were present: Drs. George, of Denton; Hopkins, of Wye Mills; Hackett, Sr., Hackett, Jr., and Saulsbury, of Hillsborough; Barton and Dunning, of Easton; Rose and Stelle, of Cordova, and Conaway, of Ridgely. The funeral took place at the hotel Thursday morning, and was conducted by Rev. T. J. Lambert, assisted by Rev. F. F. Carpenter, after which the remains were conveyed to the Greensborough cemetery for interment.

"The Southeastern Indiana Hospital for the Insane began accepting patients August 23, 1910. The approximately 600 patients were transported ..from Central State Hospital in Indianapolis by train. Guards who stood watch over them carried shotgun s loaded with rock salt..... mental patients had been "warehoused" in huge buildings (in the past). But the new, enlightened view of "moral treatment" current in the early 20th century was that disturbed minds could be restored to sanity in a be autiful, peaceful and accepting environment such as the new state hospital offered, with it breathtaking view of the Ohio River Valley. The breaking up of the patients' housing into smaller buildings, known as the "cottage plan," also was aimed a t more humane treatment of the mentally ill and at trying to restore them to sanity."

General Notes: According to Ann Keith - Carl "Speed" Marvel was a legendary chemist, he taught at the University of Illinois for 41 years and after forced retirement, he relocated to the University of Arizona where he taught another 27 years. He helped perfect octane fuel for use in WWI, and during WWII he developed antimalarial drugs and synthetic rubber. He directed more doctoral candidates, 176, and postdoctoral, 145, in polymer chemistry, than anyone else on record; one became president of the University of Arizona and another received a Noble Prize. The fabrics used in the astronauts' space suits were made from a compound that he discovered. The University of Arizona named a chemistry building the "Carl S. Marvel Laboratories" and there is a "Marvel Hall" in the Washington, District of Columbia headquarters of the American Chemical Society. The SCA awarded Carl their highest award, the Priestley Medal and in 1986 President Reagan honored him with the National Medal of Science.

Following is what was written about Carl Shipp "Speed" Marvel and his family in the Stanerson Family Book. This is the book written by Bradford Stanerson who married Louise Marvel. Louise was sister of my husband's mother, Helen Gladys Marvel.

There were a number of departmental lectures at Iowa State that were mainly attractive to me but Louise attended some of them. For instance, the Ames Local Section of the American Chemical Society sponsored monthly meetings which both graduate and undergraduate students were expected to attend. Prominent chemists and some chemical engineers were speakers. Carl S. Marvel, then Professor Organic Chemistry at the University of Illinois, was one of these speakers. Being one of Louise's double cousins, she attended his lecture which was on polymer chemistry, a special area of chemistry which was growing rapidly at the time. Carl was a consultant for DuPont and had made some significant contributions to their research programs. Only a few months before visiting Ames, DuPont had announced a new polymer, Nylon. It had reached commercial production and nylon hose for women soon would be available in retail stores. It so happened that Carl had been on a consulting trip just before he was scheduled to speak in Ames. He had been given several pairs of hose to take home to his wife. Believe it or not, he gave Louise a pair! With nylon hose as available as they are today, it may be difficult to visualize what a prize this was at that time. But keep in mind that this was probably the only pair in Iowa on that date because the supply had not yet reached Des Moines or any of Iowa's lesser cities. It was no small distinction for the wife of a graduate student to be the only possessor of nylon hose in the entire state of Iowa. How about that? Of course, the distinction did not last long because with production at full capacity retail stores everywhere were soon selling them. Incidentally, Dr Marvel died on January 4, 1988, at the age of ninety three. He was known as the father of polymer chemistry and was the most prolific researcher in this field for seventy years.

Both Louise and I had relatives in the New York area. Louise's double cousin, Gertrude, was married and living in New York City. Her husband's name was Bob Reilly, and they had two children, Nancy and Dick, who were a bit younger than Ronnie and Loretta but they got along fine. During the years we were in Beacon we made at least two trips to their home and they came to Beacon two or three times. These were happy occasions because the Reilly family was an active and gregarious family. Bob had been a life long New York City policeman and knew how to attract, yes even command, attention. He was fun to have around.

On one of their trips to Beacon, Uncle John Marvel, Gertrude's father, was with them and it was a real treat to see him. After dinner we asked Uncle John if he would like to visit President Roosevelt's home and library in Hyde Park. Of course he was delighted to do so. Because we had seen these places several times, we suggested the Reilly family and Uncle John take the tour while we sat in the car and read the Sunday paper. To our surprise they were back in no time flat. We were concerned that they had hurried because we did not join them, but not so. Gertrude told Louise in private that Uncle John had no interest in inspecting every item on display in the library. He was happy to walk through and thereby be able to tell his friends in Illinois that he had been there. He was a wonderful man and so reminiscent of his brother Charles, Louise's father.

The John and Mary (Mollie) Marvel Family

Several references have been made to this family because of its special relationship to Louise's father and mother. John was Charles' brother and Mollie was Sarah's sister. Their respective children were double cousins with life-long bonds. Yet some of these children have barely been mentioned in this book.

John was born in or near Waynesville, Illinois in 1865 and married Mollie Wasson in 1888. They farmed the rich soil of Dewitt County until the 1920's when they retired and moved to a newly built home in Waynesville. Their children were Edith (1889), Carl (1894), Marie (1899) and Gertrude (1902). Louise knew all these double cousins because of the numerous visits to Waynesville referred to in earlier chapters. After our marriage, we had numerous contacts with Carl, Marie, and Gertrude. Edith was a school teacher in Michigan and co-owner of a very successful Tea Room on the shore of Lake Michigan which they operated during the summer months.

We visited Marie on three occasions in Ary, Kentucky, in the heart of Appalachia. This is beautiful country but the living conditions of the miners were disheartening. Marie worked for a private organization which helped the underprivileged children of the community in a variety of ways. Prior to that, Marie taught at Berea College which is noted for its service to economically deprived college students. Marie was truly an education missionary at heart, always encouraging people to make the most of their lives.

Gertrude obtained her training in nutrition and was a hospital nutritionist in New York City when we moved to Beacon. I have previously described several interesting visits with her family while we lived in Beacon. Recently we had the pleasure of meeting one of Gertrude's grandchildren. She and her husband were in Washington on business (Environmental Engineering) when we had a delightful luncheon with them. It is an inspiration to keep in contact with cousins three generations.

The double cousin with which Louise and I had had most contact was Carl Marvel, Uncle John's only son. Carl became one of the most renowned chemists in the world. Because I was a chemist at ACS headquarters, our paths crossed frequently.

In another chapter I told about Dr C. S. Marvel speaking to the Ames Section of the ACS in the late 1930's. Later when I joined the SCA staff we met at National Meetings. It became a routine over a period of 35 years for us to get together for a visit, lunch or dinner. Carl started his career long before I did and continued it several years after my retirement. He died in 1988.

He was an amazingly productive chemist for over 70 years. He received almost every award in his field of organic and polymer chemistry. He was equally well known at the Universities of Illinois and Arizona for his excellence in teaching. In addition, he found time to consult for DuPont for over 60 years. He was president of the ACS in 1945.

In spite of his accomplishments, Carl was as common as an old shoe. He always found time to visit with his former students, advise them, and even play poker with them if they could afford to lose a few dollars. According to them, Carl always won.

We had the pleasure of knowing his wife Roberta, and their two children Jack (John T.) and Mollie (Mary C.). Jack also became an organic chemist and now is Director of Research, Ethyl Corporation. For many years Mollie was with Dayton's Department Store in Detroit. She retired early to take care of her father before his death.

The John and Mollie Marvel family has been an inspiration to Louise and also to me. I have enjoyed my numerous contacts with them.

Obituaries Pioneering Chemist Carl Shipp Marvel : Newspaper Obituary and Death Notice

Los Angeles Times (CA) - January 6, 1988

Deceased Name: Obituaries Pioneering Chemist Carl Shipp Marvel

Pioneering chemist Carl Shipp Marvel, winner of many of the nation's top scientific awards, died Monday in a Tucson hospital at the age of 94.

Marvel, who taught several generations of budding chemists at the University of Arizona, worked daily at the university's laboratories in Tucson until as recently as last summer.

Marvel led in the development of synthetic polymers during World War II, including the material that became the main component of automobile tires. He was recognized around the world as a leader in the development of plastics.

In 1986 President Reagan presented him with the National Medal of Science. In 1956 he was awarded the nation's top prize for chemistry, the Priestly Medal, from the American Chemical Society. He served as the society's president in 1945.

According to a spokesman for the University of Arizona, Marvel died of natural causes.

CARL MARVEL, A FOUNDER OF POLYMER CHEMISTRY: Newspaper Obituary and Death Notice

Chicago Tribune (IL) - Thursday, January 7, 1988

Deceased Name: CARL MARVEL, A FOUNDER OF POLYMER CHEMISTRY

Carl Shipp Marvel, 93, a chemistry researcher for 67 years, was considered a founding father of polymer chemistry, which developed plastics and other synthetic materials. He taught for 41 years at the University of Illinois and 26 more at the University of Arizona

A memorial service for Mr. Marvel, a resident of Tucson, will be held in the near future at the University of Arizona. He died Monday in a Tucson hospital.

"In a sense he was one of the founding fathers of polymer chemistry," said John Schaefer, a chemist and former president of the University of Arizona. "The question for chemists in this century has been how do we imitate nature, how do we recreate natural materials such as wool or the shell of the crab, which is a natural polymer rather than a plastic? Chemistry was challenged to find a way to create new materials by linking together small molecules into long chains, or what we know as polymers. Prof. Marvel played a key role in that in this country."

Mr. Marvel, a native of Waynesville, Ill., received his master's degree in 1916 and his doctorate in chemistry in 1920 from the University of Illinois. He had been placed in charge of developing chemicals for "preps labs" during World War I while still a student. He became a full professor in 1930.

His research in the '30s, when polymer chemistry was in its infancy, laid much of the groundwork for today's plastics technology and introduced polymer chemistry to U.S. university research labs. Among his specific developments was polybenzimidazoles, which could withstand heat of up to 1,600 degrees and could be used in space rocketry.

During World War II, he was in charge of a secret project at the University of Illinois that helped develop synthetic rubber. After the war, he headed a technical intelligence team that surveyed the German synthetic rubber industry.

His chemical interests and expertise have been multiple. His teaching, patents and almost 200 papers represented the fields of amino acids, polyunsaturates, organo-metallics, organic free radicals, optical activity of vinyl polymers and hydrogen bonding.

He was president of the American Chemical Society from 1945 to 1947.

Mr. Marvel, who moved to the University of Arizona in 1961, worked daily at his university lab until last summer. He continued to teach until his death.

In 1984, the university rededicated its chemistry building as the Carl S. Marvel Laboratories of Chemistry.

Mr. Marvel was inducted into the Plastics Hall of Fame in Atlanta for his work in polymer chemistry.

In 1986, he received the National Medal of Science from President Reagan.

Charge Man Pointed Gun At Trooper

Descendants of Robert Marville

Vernus E. Marvel, 49, of 2616 Cherry was being held in the county jail this morning on a charge of threatening a state trooper with a double-barrel shotgun. Marvel was arrested at his home at 11:30 Saturday night after Glen Soloman, Mt. Vernon state trooper, radioed for assistance. Marvel was booked on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and driving while intoxicated. Trooper Soloman said that Marvel, driving a pickup truck, made a left turn from Broadway into 26th street and that he had to slam on the brakes of the state patrol car to avoid a collision. He said that he pursued Marvel's truck down 26th street, with siren and blinking lights on but that Marvel failed to stop until he pulled into the driveway at his home, a few blocks away. Trooper Soloman said that he asked Marvel for his driver's license and that, after a few words, Marvel went into his garage and returned with a shotgun. He said that Marvel pointed the gun at him. Soloman said he backed up to his patrol car and radioed for assistance. City, county and state police answered the call and Marvel complied with an order to come out of his house. Officers found a loaded shotgun in the kitchen of the Marvel home and they confiscated it.

Another name for Cora was Cora Ostrander.

General Notes: According to a newspaper article from Wilkes-Berre Times dated July 7, 1898. 'Cora Marvel, the young daughter of W J Marvel, the well known marketman of this city; Ralph Brickel, son of B E Brickel, a Dallas merchant, and Bessie Horning, daughter of the Lehigh Valley station agent at Dallas, had a close call from death on the Noxen road yesterday afternoon. B E Brickel is a furniture dealer at Dallas Yesterday he had several articles in that line to deliver at Noxen, about ten miles away, and he sent his young son Ralph to take them over. Bessie Horning and Cora Marvel, little girl companions expressed a wish to accompany Ralph, and they were permitted to go along. Everything went well until they were driving down a hill this side of Noxen, when the front wheels struck a deep rut in the road and the vehicle stopped so suddenly that its three occupants were thrown over the front to the ground and immediately under the horses' feet. The horses, without the guidance of a driver, at once ran away. Soon several people who had witnessed the accident hurried to the scene and one of number summoned Dr. Henry Lines, who found that young Brickel was badly bruised, that Cora Marvel had been severely cut on one of her legs and that Bessie Horning had her right thigh broken. Stretchers were later provided and the injured were carried to the station of the Lehigh Valley at Noxen and brought from there to Dallas on the next train. Mr. Marvel's daughter is more severely injured than either of the others and suffered considerable pain last night. The others rested comfortably....."

Torbett, has returned from Atlanta, where he went to take the state examination in embalming. He held licenses from several of the Northern states but under the law of this state he was required to take an examination under the state board of embalmers, which he did with great credit to himself, making one hundred per cent. This high percentage is very seldom made. Mr. Marvil has made many friends in the city since his arrival several weeks ago and they are gratified that he made such a successful record before the board of embalmers, which is now in session in Atlanta.
